WEATHER BULLETIN.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—For lower Michigan: Fair, followed by increasing cloudiness in northern portion in the afternoon; colder, except warmer in southern portion; brisk and high south-west shifting to west wind.

RIGHTEOUSLY INDIGNANT.
While the prosecuting attorney is dealing with himself whether he shall make another effort to bring the McKee-Hendley case to trial the women of the city are justly and righteously indignant that the case of justice should be delayed by a strained and unusual interpretation of the law, and threaten to call a mass meeting to give expression to their sentiments. The prosecution for calling a meeting of mothers is undoubtedly great. There has never been a case which appealed more strongly to the sympathies of womanhood than the case of Charlotte Hendley. A circuit judge has practically decided that it is no crime in the sight of the law to entice an innocent girl into a carriage with three libertines; for them to intrude her by cunning assurance of safety and propriety to a house of assignation there to drug and outrage her! We are told in this startling exposition of the law that the element of force necessary to establish the crime of rape is negated by the carriage ride and voluntary entry into the house of assignation. So then might it be said that wherever force is an essential element of crime the criminal may escape punishment if he shall have used opiate drugs to numb the senses of those who would otherwise resist and by relating makes his act a crime. We are told too that the facts adduced in the case before the justice would, if taken as true, fail to justify a trial upon the charge named in the indictment. If this were true then Judge Adair's interference would commend itself as sound. But the judge, in his statement of the case made upon quashing the information, avers that the testimony of the two libertines associates of the defendant conflicts with the testimony of the victim and therefore her testimony is "exceedingly improbable." It is because the judge has assumed to exalt the testimony of two characterless devils above that of an injured and friendless girl that the women of this town are indignant. They should call a meeting, in that meeting they should exercise the right of free speech. The prosecuting attorney's office should be invited to attend in a body.

FAIR PLAY DEMANDED.
At the last annual encampment of the U. A. R. held at Indianapolis, a series of resolutions were passed reviewing the cruelties and sacrifices of the soldiers, the treatment accorded them by a generous people and the defeat of the people's will by the present secretary of the interior. These resolutions are reproduced in another column. They will be read before the members of all the U. A. R. camps in this country at their next regular meetings. They are significant of a spirit which moves the great body of heroes who answered to their country's call in the hour of its dismay. For this reason it is proper to commend them to the intelligent discrimination of those who have hastily condemned the order as being dominated solely by a purpose to rob the government under a liberal pension laws. The preamble and resolutions make it plain that the order is sensible to the generous provisions made to relieve the necessities of the veterans of the war. It is also made plain that the order resents the unprovoked and illegal rulings of the pension department, which presume that the majority of pensioners, or any considerable number of them are saturated with greed. The order insists that the pension law be to the good of the pensioners and that no pension be granted to a pensioner charged with crime. It does not demand that all pensioners be forthrightly entitled to pensions; but it does demand that to veterans' pension shall be suspended without first giving him notice and opportunity to prove his right to receive the same and this demand has been so far honored that the order's preliminary suspensions (without notice) have been revoked. The veterans are neither beggars nor paupers.

FOR A CODE.
That Michigan will sooner or later emulate the example of the more progressive states of the union and adopt a code of civil procedure seems to be generally agreed upon by the younger members of the bar and almost all the judges of the circuit court. The Michigan Law Journal, one of the most carefully edited law periodicals in the country, has devoted much space to an impartial discussion of the subject, both the negative and affirmative sides of the proposition having been treated by learned writers. This discussion has unquestionably quickened general interest in the subject among lawyers and so far awakened the circuit judges to the advisability of a change that a meeting has been called for tomorrow evening at the court house in this city, when and where the subject will be carefully considered, and it is probable some definite action will be taken. The opposition to a code of procedure comes entirely from old lawyers, who imagine that such an innovation would nullify the learning and experience of years. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Codification is but another name for simplification. The crude and cumbersome practice of the common law is transformed by codification into the simplest forms of procedure to arrive at the same end. The innumerable common law pleadings loaded with redundant and many times grotesquely absurd counts or allegations under a code become plain statements of facts and denials. The practice under the code comprehends all the knowledge of the common law in the briefest compass. The old practitioner becomes a skillful code pleader and a successful code practitioner where a young man who is compelled to go back to first principles fails utterly to make a record. The code is the old lawyer's salvation, the young man's hope. It is not yet absolutely perfect, but its imperfections are virtues compared with the faults of the practice that has obtained since Justinian issued his Pandects.

COLONEL ROSE surprised the town last night by issuing a peremptory order to the captains of the local military companies to get their men in line forthwith to be in readiness to receive marching orders. The captains, like true soldiers, obeyed the command without questioning and in a short space of time had their companies drawn up company front in their respective armories ready to move against the enemy. It was then explained that the order was issued to test the efficiency of the discipline and to ascertain how long it would take to get the local militia under arms in case of an emergency. The test was a surprisingly satisfactory one.

Now the repeal bill is before the house and Mr. Bland has registered the expected kick. It is possible that all opposition will be quieted and the bill pushed through in a day or two. When finally passed and signed by the president it is likely to be as valuable as a white elephant in a canary bird cage. Grover is very proud of his triumph and receives the congratulations of his well-wishers with the self-contained "I told you so" air of a Chinese Joss.

PRENDERGAST should be tried for wilful murder. He may not be excused on the plea of insanity. His every act since his arrest proves him to be a heartless demon. His neck should be stretched until he can no longer breathe. Ordinary hanging would be too merciful.

There is something pathetic in the passing of the midway pleasure. The voice of the "barker" was still some weeks ago, and the midway relapsed into desuetude to the accompaniment of the music of the hoodoo snake charmers. Thus its glory departed.

There seems to be a general acquiescence in the demand that Prendergast, the assassin, shall be hanged. Even the newspapers long and consistently opposed to capital punishment join in it.

POTTER PALMER has offered to give $300,000 to build a woman's memorial building on the Lake front. The prodigal liberality of those Chicago millionaires is peculiar to no other city in the world.

While the Massachusetts democrats are working day and night to prove that their gubernatorial candidate is not a free trader, Ohio democrats are working extra time to prove that theirs is.

When it was noted about last evening that the troops had been called out for the mischief making Halloween forces beat a precipitate retreat. Colonel Rose's test was well-timed.

Nearly 50,000 persons paid the regular admission fee to enter the world's fair grounds yesterday. If the weather continues fair the great show will continue open indefinitely.

Somebody has suggested that the Michigan building be removed to Lansing to be made over into an executive mansion. It is more admirably suited for a Reed's Lake beer parlor.

It is to be hoped that the Jefferson club democrats will pay the rent. The white-winged guardian of peace stands at the door and it would be cruel to slam it in his face.

CONNETT and Mitchell may be compelled to fight in Monaco. There is only one other worse locality known, and that is too hot for a prize-fight even between wind-mills.

CARTER HENRY HARRISON will be laid to rest in Grand-land cemetery today, and one of the most conspicuous figures of our times will be removed from earthly view.

WILL MAKE A CODE

Meeting of Michigan's Circuit Judges Called Here.
HOLD A SESSION TOMORROW

Need of Uniformity in Rules of Practice—Judge Russell Called the Meeting.
A large number of circuit judges of Michigan will meet tomorrow evening in the circuit court-room in this city. The meeting in itself will not be of great general interest, but the final effects may prove it to be one of the most notable gatherings of judges ever held in Michigan. Invitations have been sent out by Judge Russell of Muskegon to most of the judges in the state, and a number have signified their intention to attend.
The need of a more uniform code of practice has been felt by attorneys and judges throughout the whole state, and it is for the purpose of formulating such a code that this preliminary meeting is called. The meeting will be held in Judge Grove's court-room at 7:30. The matter has not been known here except to the two circuit judges, but now that it is made known many attorneys will no doubt attend the meeting.
Judge Grove said yesterday that it was a preliminary meeting and he did not expect that any positive action would be taken. The final result, if the establishment of a uniform code is decided upon, will be a great improvement on the present system.

BANQUET TO MR. UHL

The Jefferson Club Will Give Him a Grand Dinner.
The Jefferson club will give a banquet in honor of Edwin F. Uhl, assistant secretary of state, previous to his departure for Washington. The matter was decided last evening at the only harmonious meeting ever known in the history of the organization. The time and place have not yet been decided upon, but will be in a day or so. Mr. Uhl will leave for the capital next Wednesday. Another meeting of the club will be held Friday evening at which time the following committees will report:
Arrangements—C. H. Bender, Mark Norris, George W. Thompson, C. M. Wilson, Dr. D. Emmet Welch, Fred J. Adams, M. A. Aldrich.
Invitations—Niram A. Fletcher, John W. Champlin, Dr. G. K. Johnson, Maurice M. Houseman.
Finance—Henry F. McCormick, Andrew Fyfe, W. A. Shinkman.

The only other business that came before the club last night was the appointment of a committee to look up new rooms and pacify the landlord of the present quarters. The following were appointed: E. A. Maher, W. D. Pugh, M. M. Houseman.

Following the meeting of the club a telegram was sent to President Cleveland, reading as follows:
"We, the undersigned democrats of western Michigan, feeling highly honored at the selection of Hon. Edwin F. Uhl for assistant secretary of state, and as fellow citizens and neighbors, knowing his eminent qualifications for that position, heartily congratulate you and the nation on his appointment."
It was signed by a large number of prominent democrats.

CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS

Patrick Mealey, a G. R. & I. Switchman, Is Instantly Killed.
Patrick Mealey, a G. R. & I. switchman, was instantly killed near the North street crossing about 7 o'clock last night. Just how he met his death is not known. Conductor Hills found him pinned between the draw-bars of two box cars. Mealey was employed in another switching crew under Conductor Edward Kelley. It is supposed that while lanterns were out he went between the two cars to relight it. While stooping over to light the match the train backed down on him and he was caught between the draw-bars, where Conductor Hills found him when he went to make the coupling. Nobody saw Mealey go between the cars, and this is the theory as to how he went between the two cars to relight it. The deceased was about 32 years old and had been employed at various times by the G. R. & I. railroad. He returned from Chicago two weeks ago and had been working only a short time. He roomed at No. 47 Ellsworth avenue. It is not known whether he has any relatives in Chicago. A friend who came with him from Chicago left the city yesterday morning. Letters found in the pockets of the dead man's clothes indicate that he had a sister in Minneapolis. The remains were removed to O'Brien's undertaking rooms, where Coroner Locher will hold an inquest today.

All the persons at the booths will be dressed in appropriate costumes.

Quiet Halloween

Halloween enters the police no extra work, and as far as they could learn no damage to property was done by boys bent on mischief-making. The practical joker was not active last night to the extent that he was last year on that occasion, although traces of him were seen in a harmless way. Boys played their pranks in the suburbs more extensively than on the downtown streets, but no destruction of property was reported to the police. In the suburbs empty barrels were rolled into the street, a few merchants' signs were interchanged and hideous noises were made around residences, but everything considered it was a quiet Halloween. The nearest to destruction of property was the overturning of a police patrol box on Butterworth avenue. Several social parties were given and the night was celebrated in an orderly manner.

HELD A MASK PARTY

Juvenile Templars Enjoyed a Pinnant Evening.

The Juvenile Templars held high carnival last night in McMillen block on South Division street. It was a masked party and the pretty costumes of the children and their joy at being allowed to wear disguises was enough to make the older persons wish for childhood again. At 9 o'clock the masks were removed and prizes were awarded to Lucy Fitch and Lewis McMillen for wearing the prettiest costumes. The following program was then presented:
Piano solo—Mary Martin
Recitation—Ethel Jensen
Vocal duet—Lulu Curtis, Sarah Brummeler
Recitation—Ethel Burton
Recitation—Della Hubert
Piano solo—Jessie Bartlett
Recitation—Lena Welch
Recitation—Maggie McOmber
Duet—Lizzie Bekner and Anna Niehart

St. Cecilia Rehearsal

Mrs. Frank M. Davis, director, requested that all members of the St. Cecilia chorus will meet in the Ladies' Literary club this afternoon at 4 o'clock to rehearse the music to be sung at the laying of the cornerstone of the new club house.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

The dual program furnished by Manager Powers for Thursday, November 2, is a novel one and promises to receive the hearty support of the play-going public, as general interest seems to be taken in the various advertisements entailed by having two separate companies produce two entire programs in one evening must necessarily be heavy and Mr. Powers should receive the hearty cooperation of the public for the enterprise he has shown. The attractions offered are good ones. Ezra Kendall, known as an eccentric comedian, will produce his new play, "The Substitute," for the first time in this city. Among the well known artists in Mr. Kendall's support are Arthur and Jennie Dunn. This little pair are but a trifle larger now than when, at 14 and 12 years, respectively, they captivated all hearts as the Dick Deal Eye and Little Josephine of Haverly's famous Juvenile Pinafore company. That the cast is a strong one is evident by the presentation of such clever artists as John Hart, Charles Eldridge, Louis Glover, Mildred Stevens and Joseph Crowell, the Aunt Abigail of Neil Brown's "County Fair." The other attraction of the evening, presented by an entire different company, may be briefly described as one of the brightest of the farce comedies that have come forward in late years, and which goes with a rollicking dash that leaves no spectator any time or opportunity to care for anything except the music that is being played, or the dance that is being danced.
Prof. Swift, the celebrated astronomer and lecturer, arrived in the city yesterday and will be the guest of F. J. Maybury of the G. R. & I. for a few days. Mr. Swift, who comes from the Rochester observatory, has made a life study of astronomy, the formation of societies, etc., and is one of the most interesting talkers on this subject in America. Prof. Swift will give an illustrated lecture on astronomy in Lockery hall this evening, and as Manager Emerson has placed the price of reserved seats at 25 cents the hall should be filled to the doors. The sale of seats will open at 9 o'clock this morning at the box office.
That "Ole Olson" is a magnet that draws is attested by the liberal patronage that is being paid to him in the Grand. With the specialties eliminated it would be a fairly interesting production, but with Lotie Williams, Olaf Olson and other artists is a superlatively amusing skit.
Elmer E. Vance's well known play, "The Limited Mail," the original and greatest of all railroad comedy dramas, will open a week's engagement at the Grand next Sunday night. It gave excellent satisfaction and done an exceedingly prosperous business at the above house two years ago.
Friday evening Edith Pond's "Midnight Stars," the finest colored concert company traveling, will be heard in Lockery hall. The sale of seats opens in the box office Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.
John Brower and Ed Mothany will sing comic songs and Ed Robinson and Fred Wurzburg will dance in the military minstrel show in Lockery hall next week.
November 7 the harp concert, which is anticipated with lively interest by the music lovers of the city, will be given in The Powers.

There will be a matinee in Smith's today. The bill is a creditable one, including specialty artists of unusual caliber.

HOTEL GOSSIP

"I have never before in my life seen anything so affrightful as the assassination of Carter Harrison," said Harry Prescott in The Morton yesterday. "The city is absolutely dazed. Saturday night the excitement was at a fever heat. Hundreds of men would not believe the news when they first heard it. The excitement that followed the anarchist riot was nothing compared to this."
C. Jesse Church, a prominent Greenville banker, and Edward Buckley of Manitowish, general manager of the Manitowish & North-Eastern railroad, are in The Morton.

Will Shaw of Sweet's hotel returned from Chicago where he had been visiting at the world's fair.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mitchell of Cadillac died in The Morton yesterday.

General J. H. Kidd of Iowa, department commander of the Michigan G. A. R. was a guest in The New Livingston yesterday morning.

Monroe—G. B. Wiggins, Saginaw; R. G. Peters, Manitowish; H. G. Seaga, Lansing; Edward Van Fleet, Detroit; L. H. Hinton, Kalamazoo; H. M. Wardle, Ionia.

Sever's—Seth E. Wells, Rockford; D. R. Davis, Capron; M. Brenner, Ann Arbor; L. Solomon, Kalamazoo; C. M. Caskey, Petoskey; L. V. Davis, Fremont.

New Livingston—D. G. Gardner, Luther; O. Henry Johnson, Detroit; C. E. Whitcomb, G. W. Squires, Charlotte; Mrs. W. H. Lantz, Grand Haven; T. A. Carten, Ionia.

HOUSE HAS THE BILL

The Senate Asked Concurrence on the Silver Repeal Act, BUT BLAND RAISED OBJECTION

It Will Come Up in the Regular Order Today—Debate on the Bankruptcy Bill.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—At 12:50 the secretary of the senate appeared at the bar of the house and delivered a message from the senate, which announced the passage of the repeal bill with an amendment in which the concurrence of the house was requested. As the message was delivered Mr. Fitch and other members in his vicinity indulged in hand clapping as a form of exultation, but it was hushed down and there was no attempt to continue or repeat it. The bill was handed up to the speaker and laid on his desk. Mr. Livingston asked unanimous consent to have the silver bill laid before the house and considered. He asked that the debate go on today and tomorrow and that at 5 o'clock tomorrow the house begin to vote. The proposition, he said, was liberal to those who differed with the senate and its conclusion. He asked the friends of repeal to give its opponents that little favor, no more, no less.
Mr. Bland objected. The bill ought to come up in its regular order, when it would be open to amendments.
Mr. Livingston—That is my proposition.
Mr. Bland—Every gentleman who wants to be heard on this bill must have an opportunity.
Mr. Livingston—That is my proposition.
Mr. Bland—And, for one, I object to taking a bill out of its regular order.
The speaker—Objection is made. The bill will therefore remain on the speaker's desk until tomorrow.

Bankruptcy Bill Defeated

Mr. McMillin called up the joint resolution, received from the committee on ways and means, directing the secretary of the treasury to remit the duties imposed upon the war munitions, between the United States and Chili. The resolution was discussed at length by Messrs Reed and Dockery, but no action was taken.
At 2 o'clock the house went into committee of the whole, for the consideration of the bankruptcy bill, and Mr. Wolverton addressed the house in favor of the bill. He said that the constitution of the United States imposed on congress the obligation to legislate upon the subject of bankruptcy. The country has been without a bankruptcy law for fifteen years, for eight years of which there had been a persistent demand of the business men of the country for the enactment of a national bankruptcy law. The bill went over.

The senate joint resolution for the transfer to the state of Illinois of the model battleship Illinois was taken up and passed.

House bill authorizing the Texarkana & Fort Smith railway company to construct railroad bridges over Caddo lake near Morganport, La., and over Sulphur river, Ark., was passed.

Mr. Cockran introduced a resolution to help the world's fair prize winners' exhibition at New York. No action was taken on it. At 5:15 the committee arose and the house adjourned.

HUDSON RIVER BRIDGE

Senate Passed the Bill for Its Construction.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Bills were passed in the senate today providing for the time and place for holding the term of the United States courts in the state of South Dakota, and extending for one year from the time they become due, final payments on entries under the desert land act. The bill passed yesterday by the senate, to provide for a uniform system of obtaining bids for supplies for the departments, was favorably reported and placed on the calendar. The conference committee on the urgency deficiency bill reported a disagreement on an item of $2,088 for pay of clerks to senators and per diem clerks on committee during the recess of the fifty-first congress.

On motion of Mr. Hill, the bill granting the New York & New Jersey Bridge company authority to construct a bridge between New York and New Jersey was taken up and the amendments reported by the committee on commerce were agreed to. Mr. McPherson objected to the bill and offered an amendment giving the freeholders of the towns of New Jersey the right to decide the question of location. After some discussion, Mr. McPherson's amendment was withdrawn and he offered another to the effect that the bridge shall be constructed with a single span over the entire river between towers or piers; and that no pier or other obstruction to navigation shall be constructed.

Mr. Hill opposed the amendment as one which brought up the whole question as to whether congress should absolutely determine that there should be no pier whatever in the river. At the close of further discussion the vote was taken on Mr. McPherson's amendment prohibiting piers in the river, and it was rejected—yeas 12, nays 27. Mr. Allen moved an amendment that the bridge may be used by the government for military and postal purposes without charge. Rejected without a division. The bill was then passed without a report from the committee on commerce.

Mr. Gray moved to take up the house bill to amend the Chinese exclusion act of May 3, 1902, so as to make it be "unfinished business." The vote was announced as 21 to 6; but, as there was no quorum voting, the motion was withdrawn, and the senate proceeded to executive business, and at 4:45 p.m. adjourned till tomorrow noon.

Report Shows a Balance of Appropriation Unexpended.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—A detailed account of what has been accomplished in ordnance for the army during the past fiscal year is contained in the annual report which Brig. Gen. D. W. Frazier, chief of ordnance, submitted to the secretary of war. During the year the ordnance department expended $3,702,392, leaving in the treasury $4,384,401 to the credit of its appropriation. All this money will be required during the coming year to meet payments that will fall due.
